From: Kenneth W. Strelo, Senior Planner
SUBJECT: Renewed Life Church Color Change (DR 12-13)

Summary

This is a request by Scott LeBoeuf of Renewed Life Church ("Applicant") for design review approval of previously made and unapproved exterior color changes (from white to green and brown hues) to an existing church located at 1435 Main Street. The project site is zoned "C" (General Commercial) District: APN 037-090-019.

Staff recommends the City Council adopt the resolution approving the Renewed Life Church Color Change (DR 12-13), as conditioned.

Background and Project Description

The 0.7 acre project site is located on the southwest corner of Main Street and Live Oak Avenue and is designated "Commercial" in the Oakley 2020 General Plan. Surrounding uses include the Pocahontas Hall next door to the west, a self-storage facility across Live Oak Avenue to the east, an elementary school to the south, and various light industrial uses to the south and southwest. Main Street runs along the northern property line with the approved, but undeveloped, River Oaks Crossing Specific Plan commercial project north of Main Street.

Renewed Life Church was formerly known as Live Oak Community Christian Church. The applicant included a letter (attached) written by the "Elders Board of Renewed Life Church" that explains how a new congregation was formed and how that resulted in a new look for the church. The letter also provides an explanation of how the colors for the church were chosen (from white to green and brown hues). As part of the color change, the congregation researched the Victorian building architecture and historic color schemes for those building types. As presented by the applicant, the colors chosen for the building are from Kelly-Moore Paint Company's "Historic Lifestyles of the West." Specifically, the church was chosen to be painted in a color theme used as an example in the color guide for a Victorian building built in the period between 1850 and 1900. To preserve the integrity of the colors used, the original color chart and brush cut outs included with the application will be distributed to the City Council at the time of the hearing.

Environmental Review

The request for design review approval is exempt from the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act ("CEQA") pursuant to CEQA Guidelines section 15301, "Existing Facilities." The repainting of building results in a minor alteration with no expansion of use.

Analysis

The design review request was analyzed for consistency with the adopted City of Oakley Commercial and Industrial Guidelines ("Guidelines"). While the guidelines address building colors, they are reserved to the quality of the paint and that colors should be compatible, subdued and not garish. Notwithstanding subjective color choices, the colors chosen for the church meet the intent of the guidelines.

Findings

Draft findings are included in the attached resolution.

Recommendation

Staff recommends the City Council adopt the resolution approving the Renewed Life Church Color Change (DR 12-13), as conditioned.

RE: Painting the Exterior of Building

To Whom It May Concern:

I would like to start this letter off by apologizing for painting the exterior of our church without seeking a permit or permission of the city of Oakley. As a privately owned building we were unaware that permission is needed to paint the outside of our building.

For many years our building has been known as “Live Oak Community Christian Church”. The address was on live oak dr. The building was all white. In the fall of 2011 two congregations came together as one. In the merging of the 2 churches the congregation that emerged was “Renewed Life Church”.

As “RLC” we wanted to distance ourselves from the previous congregation. We have a new senior Pastor, a new Elders Board and many new members. We felt painting the church a color would tell the community that something was different about the congregation and people would notice us, possibly for the first time.

The church building has been in disrepair for many years. For the past 2 years we have been trying to repair the building which included painting the interior and exterior of building. In the painting of the exterior we could not afford to do all the repairs needed to return the building to a pristine condition, but we did the best we could do with limited resources.

To come up with the color selections of the building we took in consideration of the age of the building and what type of architecture the building is. We also contacted Kelly-Moore Paint company sales representative Greg Morgan to help us with colors that would have been used when our building was first built. Kelly-Moore Paint Company has done extensive research in its historical colors. It has developed the color chart “Historic Lifestyles of the West”. These are the specific colors used on the west coast during the time period that our building was first built.

On this color chart they have colors from 1850-1900 in the Victorian style building like we have. We picked a color scheme from this part of the color chart. It was a suggested color scheme from the chart itself. On the color chart used there is an actual picture of the color scheme used on a Victorian style building.

We have included the color chart and color brush outs used on the building. We have also included a photo of our building showing it was NOT just white in the days gone by. The photo was copied from the “City of Oakley” web site.

Thank you,
Elders Board of Renewed Life Church
